Summary: Pretty even two-year-old race to kick things off. I like Royal Phoenix. His first up run was very good, he hit the front and held on for a dead heat in a blanket finish. Although this race is 100m further, you'd expect a lesser tempo and he could prove hard to run down at nice odds. Lone Eagle was the unlucky runner in that race, and clearly has talent, but his racing style means he'll give them a start. River Jewel was a good winner at Swan Hill and can improve into this, while Prevailing Winds, who was behind River Jewel at Swanny, can also make progress with blinkers on. My best value comes up in Race 7 No.2 Staviva. Staviva resumes from a spell here and I'm confident that he'll improve again in this campaign having had nearly 12 months off. He was at three of his five first-up runs, with two of those wins over 1200m. One of the runs he was beaten, he had no luck in a Listed race in Queensland, so this Bm80 looks entirely suitable. WATCH: Our Preview of Flemington Saturday amazon promo code reddit
