In online Pai Gow, both the player and the house will be dealt 7 cards, from a deck of 52 cards plus joker. The joker may be used as an ace or to substitute for any card required to make up a straight or a flush. The player will arrange his cards into 2 poker hands, one of 5 cards (which must be the higher valued hand) and the other of 2 cards. When he is satisfied with the arrangement, his hands are compared to the house's hands. If each is higher than the corresponding hand belonging to the house, he wins. If only one is worth more than the house's corresponding hand, the round is a "push," or tie. When both hands are lower than the house's, the player loses. Cheat Sheets for Craps – While examining the types of bets offered at the craps table isn't illegal, carrying a cheat sheet is prohibited. This is defined as a piece of paper with the various odds for each possible bet, as well as their payout percentage. I'm not sure why casinos care about this, as every possible wager is slanted in their favour to begin with. Maybe they just don't want a bunch of people standing around the craps table with their faces buried in a piece of paper. all slots free spins
