The Grand opening of the Crown Towers Perth on 15 December was a turning point for Melco Crown Entertainment (Ltd) after the past year. Acknowledged as the most expensive Australian hotel, it boasts panoramic views of Perth as well as fabulous interiors. Though it was a quiet affair, with only Australian industry leaders in attendance, the hotel looks to be a good investment for the ailing company. Owner James Packer did not attend, but the Premier of Western Australia and Tourism Minister Colin Barnett officially opened the extravagant hotel. It joins the ranks of the Crown Promenade and Crown Metropole, already attached to the resort located on the Swan River. Roulette is played with a large spinning wheel, and a ball which circles the parameter of the wheel in the opposite direction, eventually falling in to a pocket. If playing at a land-based casino, or with a live dealer over the Internet, the dealer in charge of the game (the croupier), controls the spin of the wheel and the toss of the ball each round. Regular online roulette games (computer-generated), are automated and simulated by state of the art technology, kept random and fair by random number generators. The wheel contains either 37 or 38 pockets (European or American) that the ball could potentially fall in. The pockets are numbered 1 through to 36, split evenly into red and black colours, with either one single zero (Euro), or a single zero and a double zero (US), which is/are green in colour.
