Each-Way Bet – You can bet on a rider to win and place (an each-way bet) and this bet consists of two separate wagers: the win bet and the place bet (a placing of first, second or third), so you are laying down double the amount you would of a regular outright wager. The odds paid on the place bet are often displayed as fractions (1/2, 1/3, 1/4 or 1/5) of the win odds. So for example, if Cyclist A has odds of $8 to win the Tour de France and a bookie offers 1/4 odds for the place, then Cyclist A would be paying $2 to place. If your cyclist wins the race, you claim both the win bet and place bet. If your cyclist comes second or third you claim just the place bet, and if he/she fails to place in the top three, you lose both wagers.
