The first thing therefore is to choose the right video poker variant. After this comes the playing strategy that you apply. One unchangeable thing no matter which video poker variation you choose is that the odds of getting a specific hand are always the same. It's a very different scenario to slots games with all their different payline variations. Obviously your payout in video poker depends on what your final hand is, so the first thing that affects your odds is the odds of that particular hand coming up.
