But first, if you want to play Pai Gow Poker in a live setting, we should mention that it is in your interest to play as the banker as often as possible. The option to "bank" a hand – essentially, playing as the casino – will come around the table, and if you have the money to cover the bets from the other players, then you'll have the option to play the bank. Deuces and Joker uses 53 playing cards – a standard deck plus a joker. Joker and deuces are wild and can stand in for any other card. This obviously makes it much easier for players to achieve their goal of making the highest possible poker hand with the cards they were dealt. Discard and draw of a maximum of 5 cards is allowed. Play follows standard poker rules, with a payout of 2500 coins on a Royal Flush if the player had bet the max, and just 1000 coins if he bet only 4 coins. The single joker in the deck is considered a wild card, but its usage is limited. Jokers can be used to complete straights, flushes, or straight flushes. If you have a joker but can't use it to complete one of those hands, it can be used as an ace instead. This means that the only way to make a "five-of-a-kind" hand is to have four aces along with the joker.
