Instead of cash, players use chips that have no monetary value in order to make their bets. As the tournament progresses, the cost of the blinds and antes rise, in order to force players to try and accumulate chips to maintain a reasonable stack to play with. If a player runs out of chips, they are eliminated from a tournament. Players win money in tournaments based on when they are eliminated. The final player with all of the chips at the end is the winner and will earn the largest prize; in addition, other players who make it to the late stages of the tournament normally win prizes, with the last 10% of players surviving usually winning some sort of prize money, casinos that accept paysafecard 2018
